CHAPMAN'S JAIL PRIVILEGES.

Supreme Court Awarding Warden
Leonard's Answer to Charges.

That the members of the supreme bench of the District are cringing more than passing interest in the alleged state of affairs existing at the District jail, is plainly apparent from the fact that, at the session of the court in general term, held late yesterday afternoon, the main topic of discussion was the rules and regulations prescribed for the management of that institution.

All the members of the supreme bench were present, and for more than an hour they discussed the charges made recently by Lawrence L. Ball, that favoritism is being shown Elverson R. Chapman, the contemptuous spy broker, who is serving out a thirty-day term at the jail. Many authorities were consulted by the court, and it is said, several suggestions were made regarding changes in the rules, but until the answer of Warden Leonard has been received, no definite action will be taken.

Warden Leonard was at the city hall yesterday. He did not come on any business relative to the proposed investigation, he said, but merely in the performance of his duties connected with the jail. He expects to have his answer to the petition of Ball ready this afternoon or Monday, when the court goes into general term.

Near Admiral Rodgers' Will.

The will of the late Ann Elizabeth Rodgers, widow of Rear Admiral Rodgers, was filed for probate yesterday. The instrument is dated June 25, 1893, and the sum of $20,000 is left in trust for the two daughters, Frederica Louisa Rodgers and Helene Theodosia Rodgers. William Leidy Rodgers, a son, is left the silver plate that was presented to his grandfather by the city of Baltimore, also the silver water on which is engraved the naval emblem between the Weehawken and Atlanta, also his father's Russian sword. The residue of the estate is divided among the three children of the testator, William Leidy Rodgers and Frederica Theodosia Rodgers are named as executors.

Saxton Convicted of Bigamy.

William A. Saxton, otherwise known as Alfred Saxton, was convicted in criminal court No. 1, before Chief Justice Bingham, yesterday of bigamy, and remanded to jail. Saxton was married at Greenville, S. C., January 10, 1881, to Eliza Hunt, with whom he lived for several years as man and wife. A few months ago he came to Washington, and on March 1st, he married Laura Ellington. His first wife came to Washington and found her place occupied by another, whereupon she caused the arrest of Saxton, and he was promptly indicted.

MR. HOBART'S STAG PARTY

The Vice President Entertains the President and Senate.

An Informal Reception at the Cameron Mansion—President Extablished by Mr. Morton.

Vice President Hobart entertained the first people of the Government last night at an informal reception at his home, in the old Cameron mansion on Lafayette Square. A hundred guests were present, including the President, the Cabinet, the Senate and others.

This stag reception, informal, with "a little punch, a small lunch, and a good cigar," is an idea which was originated by Mr. Morton when he was President of the Senate. He gave one such function, and Vice President Stevenson gave one during his administration. They were great successes, and Vice President Hobart has seen fit to continue the plan.

The guests began to arrive at 9 o'clock. At 10 the luncheon was served. The magnificent rooms of the Cameron mansion were decorated with roses and sweet peas, and a string band furnished great success. There was not a suspicion of politics or of business of any kind at the reception last night. The guests came simply as fellow-members of the Senate and friends of the Vice President, and chatted with each other, partook of the buffet lunch, smoked cigars, enjoyed themselves in a quiet and wholly unostentatious manner, and spent three hours free from care.

DUMPED INTO THE DISTRICT.

Entire Destitute Family Sent Here
From Baltimore.

A destitute family, consisting of husband, wife, and two small children, came here from Baltimore Thursday night and yesterday morning bright and early they appeared at the headquarters of Sanitary Officer Frank and asked for free railroad transportation to Eagle Mountain, Albemarle county, Va., where they have friends. The husband informed Mr. Kneak that himself and family had resided for a long time in Baltimore, but being unable to get work there, had raised enough money to travel this city on their way to Eagle Mountain. He was asked why he did not procure transportation from the Maryland authorities, being a citizen of that State.

"We were informed," replied the husband, "that the Government had a free railroad through here which would supply us with tickets."

To prevent the family from becoming charges on the District they were sent as far as Charlottesville, Va., the county seat of Albemarle.
